- Discussion
 - There are some conflicts in SEMI E84 Main Document and its Appendix.
 - When Appendix was added, requirements were added.
 - It might be the lack of understanding E84 concept, or modifications made by only seeing the E84 implementation.
 - So, there exist some variations of E84 implementation. (Based on selection of appendix and related Information)
 - Supplier made some variations, and give one of them according to the customer operation.
 - It shall be returned to the original concept of E84. However it introduce confusion to industry because some variations already exist.
 - Therefore, modifying E84 is not proper.
 - Whitepaper for attention of this issues may be better to have, but it requires volunteers.
